Soviets take steps toward summit talks

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union, which had canceled preparations for another Reagan-Bush summit, has proposed that they be re-scheduled, a senior official said Tuesday.

It was the first public step by the Soviets toward rescheduling the next summit since they called off a preparatory meeting between Foreign Minister Andrei Shevardnadze and Secretary of State George P. Shultz after the April 15 U.S. bombing of Libya.

Admiral F. Petrovsky, deputy foreign minister, in a news conference that diplomatic contacts were under way for a new meeting between the sides were far from setting a date for a second summit between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

At their first meeting last November in Geneva, Reagan and Gorbachev agreed to meet again this fall in the United States.

In Washington, White House spokesman Larry Speakes welcomed Petrovsky's statement and said United States hopes it indicates "a willingness on the part of the Soviet Union to move forward to preparations for a summit, which we would like to see."

We are certainly ready for such a meeting between the secretary and the foreign minister, but there has been no specific date set for such a meeting," he said.

Petrovsky said even the Shultz-Shevardnadze meeting hinges on chances of "tangible" progress in arms control.

The Soviets have expressed reluctance to set a date for the summit until they see improvement in the international political climate and are assured of a concrete agreement on some aspect of arms control.

Shultz and Shevardnadze had planned to meet in May to make arrangements for the second summit.

U.S. officials have said since the meeting was canceled that they were ready to hold the summit but awaited some move from the Soviet Union.

Petrovsky said the Kremlin has "proposed to the United States to set in motion a preparatory mechanism" for a meeting between the two.

He did not say when Shultz and Shevardnadze might get together.

Speakes said in Washington that "preparation, ideas and framework for the summit" were discussed when Soviet Ambassador Yuri Dubynin met with Reagan at the White House a week ago, but he knew of no exchanges about rescheduling the preparatory session.

Soviet public statements continue to stress the Kremlin's call for a moratorium on nuclear testing and for the United States to drop the space-based defense program commonly known as Star Wars.

Heritage plan: door ajar again

SHEILA SMITH
University Staff Writer

The Provo City Council Tuesday tipped the door again for the development of Heritage Mountain, the on again, off again project aimed for the Wasatch Range. Provo City councilmen, at their regular meeting, the city council building, passed a resolution giving Provo's mayor to waive an $800,000 bond previously required for Heritage development. Finally the fee was one million dollars and the development paid $200,000. The $800,000 can be waived since it was not a loss to the city and in various situations fees for bonds were not charged the city, according to council chairman Gary Eighty.

Also Provo City employees will now look forward to receiving a two percent salary increase. This will be effective July 1.

A resolution was passed for the participation of Provo City employees in the noncontributory retirement system of the state. Current city employees will have six months to decide whether to participate in the system. Future employees hired will not have the option, but will be automatically placed under the system.

The council also approved fee increases at the Provo recreation center and Municipal golf course.

In other action, the council discussed the Provo City budget for the 1986-87 fiscal year, and passed the proposed budget with one addition to the fire department of $98,000, previously unallocated money. This leaves an $800,000 deficit for next year. There was no discussion concerning a tax increase.

War with Russian fighters separates Afghan families

As in his own case, Matin said many families have been separated while fleeing from Soviet soldiers. Refugee camps in Pakistan are filled with millions of Afghans who sometimes had to travel hundreds of miles on foot, through tortuous mountains, to get away from their invaders, he said.

Many do not make it, for whether they stayed or walked or fled into the mountains, the Russians were always close on their heels, he added.

In fact, it was while Sharifa and her family were fleeing that she incurred her wounds. According to Matin's story, Soviet soldiers threw napalm, a petroleum bomb that burned the skin, at their group. Sharifa, who was a 1-year-old then, was severely burned.

Refugees had to hide in caves during the day, traveling only at night, something without food or water. But the Afghans were able to the Russian helicopters and bombs, said Matin.

Anything, said Matin, was preferable to the destruction in his native land; a land that had not too long ago been one of tranquility and peace. A place where people worried about their daily business of farming without a thought of politics or the rest of the world, he explained. "It is too painful to think of the future of our land," he said.

Afghan accounts say each day brings more destruction, and freedom fighters are faced with the formidable task of freeing their country from the Soviets. According to Matin, there is little hope the Mujahedeen will succeed, though they have not given up completely.

"The odds facing the freedom fighters are tremendous, and it is only a matter of time before the Soviets take over completely," said Dr. Youngblood, the man who discovered Matin.

With little help from the rest of the world, the Mujahedeen have no recourse but to defend their territory with weapons they can lay their hands on. World War II era rifles, machine guns and rocket-propelled grenades dead Soviet soldiers make up their arsenal — hardly a match for the sophisticated weaponry the Soviets possess, Matin said.

But for many Afghans, there is still hope. Their most important weapon, strength and resilience, is one that can not run out — at least not yet, he promised.

Utah will not get outdated weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has tentatively decided that its stock of outdated chemical weapons should be destroyed at existing storage depots rather than transported to one or two large destruction plants, a top Army official Tuesday said.

These depots are located in Utah, Alabama, Maryland, Indiana, Kentucky, Oregon, Colorado and Arkansas.

Hansen, 55, had been released on his personal bond while he appealed the conviction to the Supreme Court, which refused to hear the case in March.

He asked U.S. District Judge Joyce Hans Green for a retrial based on what he said was newly discovered evidence or a reduction in his sentence to probation and a $20,000 fine. She refused both requests.

Sen. East's suicide shocks capital

GREENVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The idea of Sen. John East committing suicide still finds friends and legislative colleagues unable to accept it as having been a "natural" and "inevitable" thing going for him.

Friends and colleagues Jesse Helms said the suicide of the popular senator from North Carolina, a conservative Republican, "appeared to make no sense. He seemed successful in everything he did."

East's body was found at 8 a.m. Sunday in the garage of his home. His death was officially ruled as being caused by asphyxiation by carbon monoxide.

NASA chief encourages employees

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Employees of Marshall Space Flight Center got some encouraging words Tuesday from NASA's new administrator, who told them the center had been a "pillar of strength" for a quarter-century.

More than 400 workers greeted James Fletcher with a standing ovation. Fletcher said he wanted to visit Huntsville because of the retirement of director Willis J. Lucas on Thursday and because of the difficult times the Marshall Center has experienced.

He called Lucas a great American and a "valuable part of the NASA program."

Pumping plant construction begins

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Construction work has begun on the West Desert Pumping Project. Utah state officials hope the plant will begin siphoning excess water from the swollen Great Salt Lake by late February, 1987.

Darry L. Anderson, State Division of Water Resources director, said Southern Pacific Railroad began work Monday on its portion of the project. Southern Pacific owns a rail causeway that has sustained heavy damage recently from lake waves.

The 80-mile-long, 30-mile-wide lake is at its highest levels in more than a century.

New York Harbor gears up for centennial celebration

NEW YORK (AP) — The pace quickened Tuesday in New York Harbor. More tall ships arrived and workers returned to complete work on the Statue of Liberty before Thursday's centennial celebration.

The aircraft carrier John F. Kennedy, escorted by six tugs and two police boats, was guided into the harbor and anchor'd within view of Liberty Island. It will serve as a floating reviewing stand for the news media during the centennial observances.

President Reagan is scheduled to "unveil" the refurbished statue with the backing of a large light show Thursday night, kicking off a July Fourth weekend celebration that is expected to attract 13 million people and include what is billed as the nation's largest fireworks display.

Work on the statue, which began three years ago, was just about finished Tuesday, National Park Service spokesman Manny Strumpf said.

Workers on Liberty Island were doing some minor landscaping, touch-up painting and stone-cleaning, Stumpf said.

Asked if there was a possibility they wouldn't fire the will can always come into this, but we don't think

The National Weather Service predicted rain Wednesday, but clearing skies Thursday and sunny and through Friday.

The Canadian tall ship Bluenose 2 sailed into the harbor with the backing of a large light show Thursday night, kicking off a July Fourth weekend celebration that is expected to attract 13 million people and include what is billed as the nation's largest fireworks display.

More than 20 of the high-masted sailing ships, fanned out across the harbor, will take part in the Parade of Sail up the Hudson River on Friday.

Jennifer Connelly stars, a young woman who must enter the "Labyrinth" to rescue her baby brother from the Goblin King Jareth, played by singer David Bowie. "Labyrinth" opened last Friday to a nationwide audience.

Bowie lends talents to fantasy-packed movie

LYNN DANIEL WELLER
Inverse Staff Writer

If you have reached your limit of inner teen-sex comedies and are in mood for a truly different type of movie experience, then perhaps labyrinth, rated PG, is the movie you're looking for. Director Jim Henson, famous for Muppet TV series and motion pictures, and Executive Producer Steve Skeet, known for his Wars and Inanna Jones series, have teamed up to make an unpredictable, sword-and-sorcery epic. The script is by Terry Jones, formerly Monty Python. The movie shows creative input of all these individuals. It is creative and exciting and... (read on)

This story is about a young, teenage girl (played by Jennifer Connelly) who is tired of the real world and is socially tired of baby-sitting her baby brother. She is so tired that she wishes that the goblins will come and take the little boy away. The adventure begins when her wish is granted.

David Bowie plays the goblin king who frustrates the girl's attempts to rescue her baby brother by placing her in a hopeless maze and who is finally overcome by her maidenly charms.

One of the most exceptional things about the film is the sense that you absolutely never know what is going to happen next. The beautiful computer graphics that appear over the opening credits are a good clue about the originality of what is going to follow.

The general appearance of the movie's fantasy world is new and unique. Many of the situations called for by the script are outrageous and very funny, such as the "bog of eternal stench," which looks and sounds as bad as anything you could possibly imagine that is called the "bog of eternal stench."

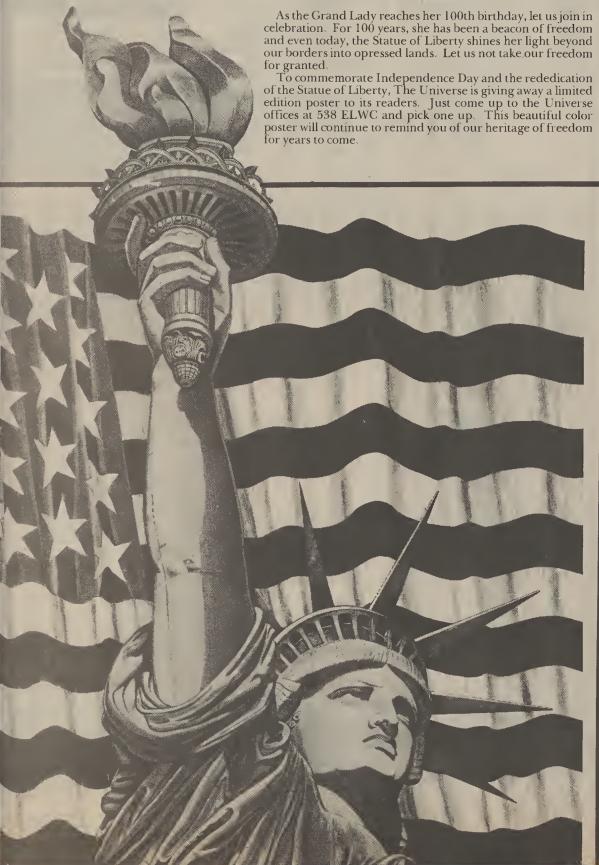

Overall there is a lot of the slow, gentle humor that Henson uses in all his Muppet shows. Also this film is a lot more comprehensible, less pretentious and the characters more believable than they were in Henson's previous fantasy effort, "The Dark Crystal," a story about the ultimate battle between good and evil.

MOVIE REVIEW

This is a fun movie. But there are some problems. Frequently the action is so slow and stop so that David Bowie can sing a song. Some of the songs give any appearance of having anything to do with the story, and most of them are simple love ballads. Also, this movie is not for everyone. Because it is so unpredictable, unless you pay close attention, you might find yourself as lost in the movie as the girl is in the maze as she attempts to navigate it.

Overall the movie has its heart in the right place. It has no sex, bad language or human violence, and it advocates friendship and trust and all sorts of wonderful virtues. (The only problem is that quite a few gruesome little creatures bite the dust which might make it a bit hard for little children to watch.)

Conference explores county drug abuse

By JON NIELSON
University Staff Writer

Knowing someone who uses drugs or alcohol and not knowing what to do for them can be frustrating.

For this week's The Gathering of the Mormon Church, the Gathering and BYU's School of Social Work co-sponsored the 1986 Prevention Conference to enlighten the public about drug abuse in Utah County.

"We know there are about 10,000 people in Utah County who struggle with marijuana between grades five and eight," said Russell.

"In the fifth grade, only 2 percent of the children have tried marijuana.

However, by eighth grade that figure explodes to 19.9 percent. While most of these students aren't using drugs on a regular basis, they are experimenting, and that is a key time to provide prevention services."

Five percent of the Gathering

Place's clientele are adolescents.

"We know the initiation into drugs is over by the early 20s," said Russell.

"This means if somebody is going to start using drugs, they will start by the time they are 23 or 24."

By psychologist James MacArthur, director of high school Self-esteem will battle drugs and alcohol." His speech was titled "Forty-four Ways to Build Self-Esteem in the Family."

"Drugs and alcohol cover a lot of inadequate feelings children have of themselves," he said.

According to Russell, the answer may be two-fold. "We need to find ways to prevent substance abuse be-

Pageant slate provides variety

Several concerts and pageants are scheduled through the next 12 months. Concerts during the month of July on Temple Square begin at 7:30 p.m. on the dates scheduled. Tickets are not required for concerts; they are free of charge and are sponsored by The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. All concerts are performed in the Assembly Hall.

July 4: The Utah National Guard 23rd Army Band.

In its traditional celebration of Independence Day, the band will present two concerts in the Tabernacle. The program will consist of favorite patriotic marches and classics.

July 9: Mormon Youth Chorus

July 11: Jed Moss, Piano and Shanon Hanks, Violin.

July 12: Ken Noble, Organ.

July 16: Mormon Youth Symphony

Drugs plague universities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The chairman of the NCAA committee on drug education, saying every college in the country has a drug problem, feels that an effective testing program acts as a deterrent to abuse by athletes.

Dr. Robert J. Murphy, an associate clinical professor of preventive medicine and the head team physician at Ohio State University, says he has data showing that in the last five years 20 percent to 25 percent of college athletes use marijuana or cocaine — or both — an average of once a week.

Murphy, also the chairman of the NCAA's committee on drug education, provided information presented to the Big Ten Conference Awareness Committee on Alcohol and Drug Abuse.

A 1984 NCAA survey found that 36 percent of 2,039 athletes responding had used marijuana within the previous 12 months, 17 percent used cocaine, 8 percent used amphetamines and 6.5 percent used anabolic steroids.

Boxer loses title for cocaine use

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Boxer David Baxton, who Michigan authorities said admitted using cocaine before a May 22 title fight in Detroit, has been stripped of his North American Boxing Federation 154-pound crown after a urine test showed positive for the drug.

NABF vice president Duane Ford said Baxton's crown was taken from him to the disciplinary board meeting in San Diego over the weekend.

And the head of the Michigan Athletic Board of Control said Baxton faces likely suspension after admitting that he took cocaine before the fight.

Ford said NABF regulations state that any use of drugs or stimulants is grounds for disqualification.

Tight end posts $10,000 bond

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) — All-American tight end Mike Smith of the University of Miami was fined on $10,000 and today following his arrest on cocaine and weapons-possession charges.

The 21-year-old Smith, the 10th-round draft choice of the Cleveland Browns in the National Football League draft, was arrested early Monday in the parking lot of a motel next to the campus.

FBI agents reported finding Smith in a silver car with a .357 magnum and a small plastic bag containing cocaine on the seat.

Smith refused to talk with reporters when he left the jail late Monday after posting bond.

Lloyd battles way to semifinals

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Chris Evert-Lloyd needed every bit of her experience Tuesday to outlast Czechoslovakia's Helena Sukova and move into the women's singles semifinals at Wimbledon.

"This was pretty much of a real test," Lloyd said after overcoming Sukova 7-6, 4-6, 6-4 under a blazing sun in temperatures that soared over 110 degrees on the enclosed grass court at the All England Lawn Tennis and Croquet Club. "It was — or both — an average of once a week."

"I had so many chances," Sukova said of her loss.

"I cannot say I am disappointed with the way I played, I am just disappointed that I lost."

Also gaining semifinal berths were top-seeded Martina Navratilova, going after her fifth consecutive women's crown at Wimbledon; No. 3 Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia; and No. 10 Gabriela Sabatini of Argentina.

The men's quarterfinal draw was completed Tuesday, when top-seeded Ivan Lendl held off American Matt Anger 6-7, 7-6, 6-4, 7-6 in a shootout on Center Court that began on Monday before being suspended by darkness.

Coming off her victory on the red clay courts at the French Open, Lloyd is attempting to capture her fourth Wimbledon crown, and her first since 1981. But her semifinal foe is Mandlikova, another grass-court specialist who defeated Lloyd in the semifinal at the U.S. Open last September.

Thursday's other semifinals will pit Navratilova against the 16-year-old Sabatini, who reached a Grand Slam semifinal for the second time in her young career.

The men will play their semifinals on Friday, with the women's title match Saturday and the 100th men's championship decided on Sunday.

Oakland loses battle for Raiders

WASHINGTON (AP) — The city of Oakland's legal battle to reclaim the Raiders is over.

The Supreme Court ended Oakland's four-year battle to return the NFL team from Los Angeles Monday, rejecting the city's claim of eminent domain over the club. Oakland attorney David Self admitted that the decision meant the city has exhausted its appeals.

"It means that the eminent domain action is over. It was a long and well-fought battle, but we lost," Self said. "The lack of ability to acquire by eminent domain means that cities like Oakland are basically defenseless when it comes to a move such as the Raiders. Perhaps the level of commitment we've demonstrated with this case will help Oakland acquire an expansion team."

Self also said that the city could now be held liable for the Raiders' legal costs, which he would not specify. But Raiders attorney Joseph Aloito said the club would try to include the NFL and any damage award in the settlement.

"We will bring the NFL into the thing because of their proven conspiracy with Oakland officials in connection with eminent domain," Aloito said. "You remember the deal that even Rozelle testified to..."

"He waived the NFL constitution in exchange for the right to name the new owner of the Raiders..."
